

Thoughtful Thursday

If someone always meets our expectations, how much do we really know about their potential?

A private page to continue the reflection. There is nothing to submit and no need to arrive at one answer.

Meeting expectations tells us what someone has demonstrated. Curiosity reminds us there may be more to discover.

● NOTICE WHAT YOU KNOW

Think of someone who regularly meets expectations. What have you actually seen them do?

● LEAVE ROOM FOR THE UNKNOWN

What interests, ideas, or abilities might you not yet have had the opportunity to notice?

● TRY A DIFFERENT QUESTION

What could you ask them that might invite an answer beyond their usual role?

● REFLECT ON YOUR OWN ASSUMPTIONS

Have you ever been surprised to learn something new about a person you know well? What changed?

What is one way you can stay curious about someone beyond what they usually do?

A conversation, an invitation, a new responsibility if they want one—or simply listening with an open mind.

Your reflection stays yours. This printable does not send or save anything.
